

AWAY

THE SURVIVAL SERIES

WHO

Breaking Walls is an independent studio of a multi-disciplinary team committed to create new forms of media and narrative experiences. Our goal is to offer entertainment as never seen before at the crossroads of storytelling, movie, music, design and technology. We call it Interactive Poetry.

Breaking Walls also aims to create unexpected encounters between people from different backgrounds creating fun and meaningful experiences; we wish to bring together video games fans as well as, art, cinema, and documentaries lovers.

With a well-balanced mix of classic storytelling and interactive components, we believe we can create a new breed of storytelling using media. Our message is one of hope. It promotes respect in regards to every living being and sustainable development for the planet.

WHAT

AWAY is an episodic virtual reality experience set in an open world. In the style of a wildlife documentary, the reassuring narrator's voice will guide you through every leap, swing, and flight of this journey. During a series of ten episodes, you will experience and adapt to life in the role of several animals. On the ground, in the air, or under the water, you will explore, hunt, solve puzzles, escape predators and find your way in a rapidly deteriorating environment.

During the experience, you, the player, will play a wide range of alluring animals with whom you will navigate in an ever-changing and increasingly challenging environment. As the world around you erupts in a series of cataclysmic events, you will be taken away from your home and family and driven into hostile and unfamiliar territories. Alone, you must find a way to survive in this collapsing world where food sources are dwindling and vicious predators lurk around every corner.

Away's controls will be intuitive and immersive. Only simple gestures will be required to perform any necessary action by your avatar. By performing natural and intuitive movements, you will be able to explore a rich universe by air, land or sea.
